CSE 590 Graduate Project guideline

Eligibility: ____ credit hours completed (must appear qualifying exam)

Objective: CSE 599 Graduate project guideline is a learning experience for the student and represents a major achievement in graduate study. The quality of the project is a reflection of the standards of the Department of Computer Science & Engineering The purpose of this handout is to provide guidelines for conducting a CSE 599 project. The EECS Department may, in special cases, allow more than one person to do a project, however this is highly discouraged.

FACULTY ROLE:

Advisor: The student chooses an Advisor who is responsible for the overall supervision of the project. The advisor makes the student chooses an Advisor who is responsible for the overall supervision of the project document/software. The advisor meets regularly (ideally once a week) with the student and monitors progress of the project.

A Committee: This project/thesis committee should be formed by the following 4 members.

- 1. Project Supervisor (1)
- 2. Member-External (1)
- 3. Member Internal (2)
 - a. One member must be the Chairman of the CSE Department
 - b. Other member must be the from CSE faculty, MS Program
 - c. a member may also be a co-supervisor

Chairman of the Department head determines if the study is feasible in terms of utilization of facilities, resources, financial commitments, materials and equipment. The Department Head also determines if the study is appropriate in terms of departmental policies. and procedures. The signature of the Department Head on the proposal sheet verifies that the department has all of the resources needed to complete the study.
